Conditions of Participation

Our expectations:

Treat everyone with respect. Demonstrate Christlike kindness, humility, and integrity.

Join a team and commit to its project. Be collaborative. The direction of a project is the project lead's decision.

Be prepared to work with people from every kind of church and some from none. You can disagree with an approach without passing judgement on the person and their beliefs.

Look after the space, the equipment, and the venue.

Use only the room you have been allocated for overnight accommodation. Keep the noise down from 11pm. Overnight building should only be done in the main working space, not in the accommodation rooms.

Ideas and intellectual property:

By participating, you acknowledge that 24-7 Prayer may independently explore, develop and implement ideas arising from the hackathon without requiring further permission or compensation. You retain ownership of your original code and other materials.

Please do NOT:

Sell, recruit or fundraise. If both people want to have that kind of conversation, please keep it to break times or after the event.

Photograph, film or record anything without permission. Absolutely no photography in sleeping areas.

Pressure anyone about their beliefs. 24-7 is a Christian movement, and there will be prayer as part of the event. Taking part in this is optional, and everyone is welcome.

Act in a way that is rude, derogatory, disrespectful towards your team or anyone else. Harassment of any kind will not be tolerated, and you may be asked to leave.

Deliberately damage anyone's work, equipment, or tools.

Access or attempt to access systems or data that you have not been given permission to use.

Put anyone's safety at risk or leave the venue in a worse state than at the beginning of the event.

If anything seems wrong or out of place:

Report it to a member of the 24-7 Prayer team immediately. If possible, we'd encourage you to resolve small disagreements within your project teams. However, for anything involving your safety, harassment, or any breach of the guidelines above, please tell a 24-7 Prayer team member straight away. If there is immediate danger, call 999 first, then tell a team member. For anything before or after the event, email: adrian.eagleson@24-7prayer.com
